

The Insurance Division of Sword is here. Let us help you leap your competition in a single bound.

Expect even more from us.

For years the leading provider of web-based solutions for property and casualty insurance, AgencyPort was recently acquired by Sword Group, one of the world's leading software firms. With that acquisition, a new Sword Insurance Division was born. And you can expect great things from us.

Together with SwordIntech and SwordCiboodle, we now offer more and better solutions to insurance companies of all sizes and kinds, helping them sell their products and service their clients throughout the customer lifecycle. Our unique combination of policy administration, CRM and distribution technologies and business intelligence tools makes the complicated business of insurance easier and smarter, allowing companies to address immediate business initiatives quickly—gain an edge in the marketplace—and stay on track with downstream strategic plans.

The road ahead is exciting. The resources, experience, capital and R&D we can now offer have increased in value by fourfold, and we're excited to leverage all of them with you in expected and unexpected ways. AgencyPort has built its reputation on honesty, hard work, innovation and partnership with our customers, and it is our top priority to maintain that standard.
